

Jacqui Tillyard

Master Results NLP Coach, Speaker and passionate flower smeller!

As a small child I had an inherent feeling of being 'special', an inner knowing I had a gift to share with the world. Then as I grew, life got 'in the way' I almost forgot my life purpose, that 'special feeling of knowing'.

After leaving school, I drifted into a series of sales jobs, not because I wanted to do them, but they paid the most money! I did well, winning awards and accolades, but work just didn't feel right.

My wake up call came from the Universe one day on a work trip to London. Why the hell was I sat on the great M25 car park going now where? Why was I going to dinner in a top London hotel with people I disliked and had no respect for? I had to change. I became ill from over work. I began dreading Sundays because next it would be Monday and back to work. Weekends were spoiled.

During my time off work ill, I became interested in holistic health treatments and personal development. In fact I recovered using them. I quit my job and retrained as a therapist but found it was too quiet a profession for me as I loved to talk to people and couldn't keep quiet whilst treating them! So I went on to be a coach, enabling others to break out of their hum drum existences.

I rediscovered the real me during my recovery finding my gift was to inspire greatness in others and to shine. I had said for years I wanted a job where I helped people, but figured the nursing route was not for me as I passed out at the sight of blood!

As a child I always told people I wanted to be on stage and teach people but never found the right career for it whilst growing up. 'The dream stealers' around me told me to get a proper job in a nice little office!

During my journey of personal rediscovery I went on a fire walk (well it seemed a good idea then!) How life changing was that! I realized you can do anything you want, there are no barriers only those in the imagination!

My passion is now inspiring others coaching and holding discovery workshops for them to see what was most important in their lives.

I've been incredibly fortunate in recent years; work doesn't feel like work because I love what I am doing. I have met fantastic contacts who appeared synchronistically. I believe we attract what we focus on and now I focus on success. I have helped hundreds of local women to set up businesses, helped many people meet and network together and spoken to audiences on stage, provoking the thought that maybe they could do more with their lives.

I am very privileged to live in a beautiful country home and own a property portfolio to replace my floundering pension. I feel like a millionaire each Monday morning now as I walk my dog through green fields knowing that many sit in a commuter traffic jam somewhere, whilst I breathe in fresh air and celebrate my good fortune to have rediscovered my freedom, passion and talents. I now work from the heart and let my light shine.

You can contact Jacqui at:

www.jacquitillyard.co.uk

Are you smelling your flowers?

We'd love to feature more inspirational stories

Drop us a line at . . .

www.gosmelltheflowers.com

In the meantime, GO! Smell the flowers.